KICKOFF 2:30 P.M.

TODAY'S GAME

By BILL LEISER

Bill Leiser is Sports Editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, President, Northern California Football Writers, President, Football Writers of America.

You who read this program see in front of and about you today full evidence of a new major league, new entertainment, and new industry created by the All-America Conference.

A major football circuit is all of these, and the A-AFC is the first major in any professional sport to include San Francisco. This one included San Francisco from the start.

Having known the All-America Football Conference since the day when it was only an untested dream in the mind of Chicago's Arch Ward, perhaps more than any other in San Francisco I have enthused with the phenomenal progress it has achieved.

I happened to be present in Chicago's Palmer House when the first organizational meeting of the owners of the prospective league was held. San Francisco's Tony Morabito was there, as was his coach, Buck Shaw, and Al Ruffo, his attorney.

So impressed was I with the determination of the men gathered about the not large conference table, with their full knowledge they had to spend and spend and spend before they could hope to collect a dime, with their complete realization the winning of public support could be attained only after bitter and prolonged and costly battle with the National Football League—I predicted success for the A-AFC from the start.

Most observers, not acquainted with the men concerned, suggested failure; not only San Francisco observers, but others from Coast to Coast, including many of the best. The A-AFC was told to "go get a football."

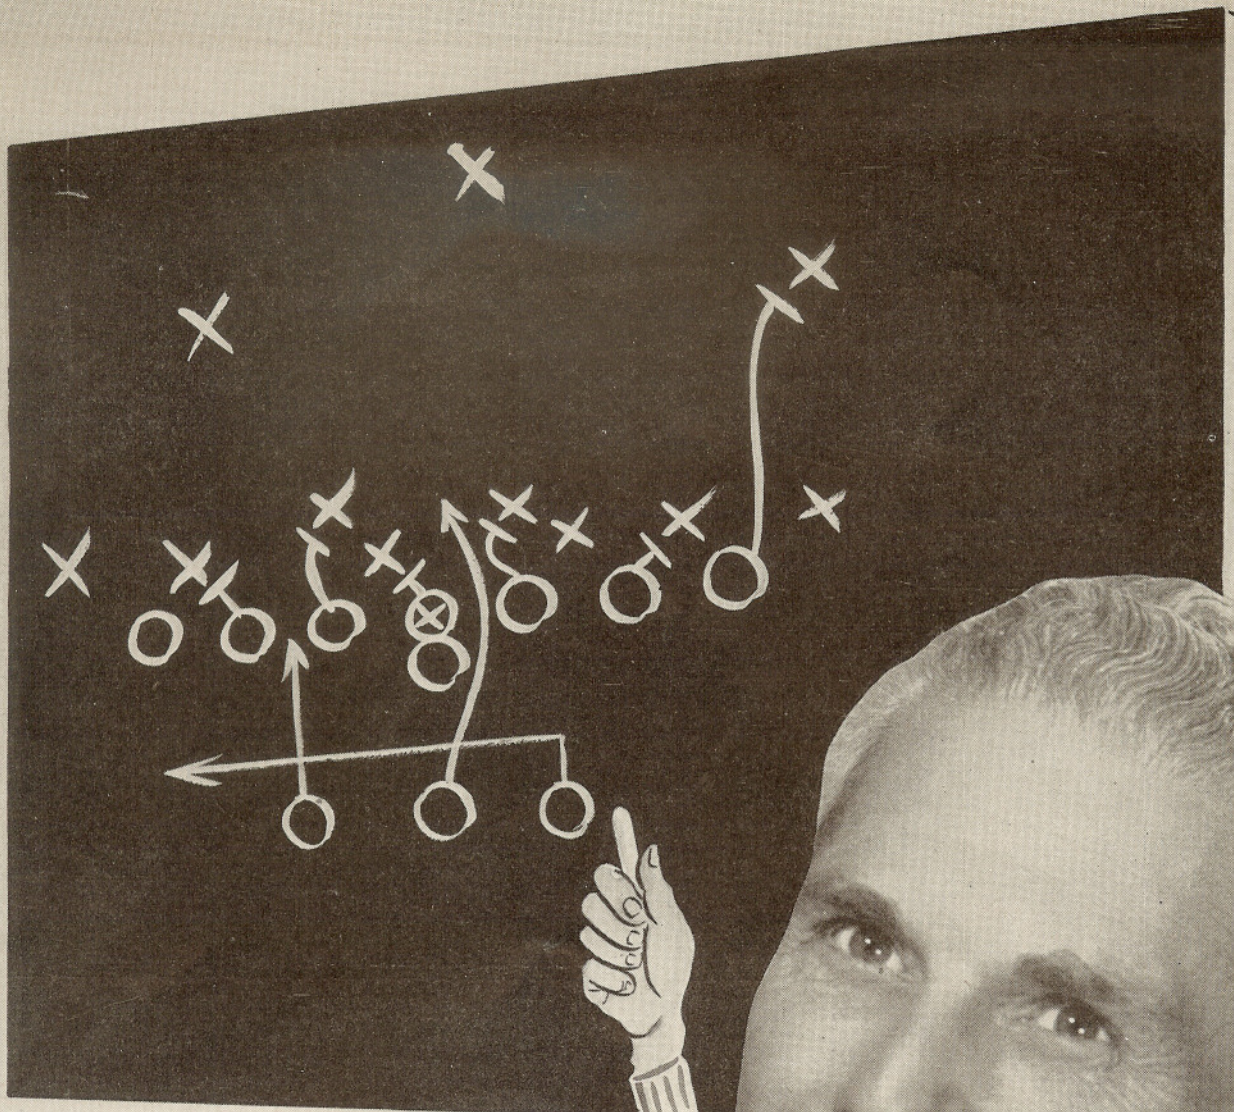

The World War ended. The A-AFC men obtained footballs, signed players at unprecedented salaries, arranged the best possible schedule, and presented their new league to the public from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Money was lost, but not the big money the owners had expected to be required to lose in their first season.

Came the second season, this one, and they're "over the hump," about five years earlier than they had hoped.

And so today you watch two of their best teams, playing before—well, how many—in a stadium where it was once said professional football could never be a success.

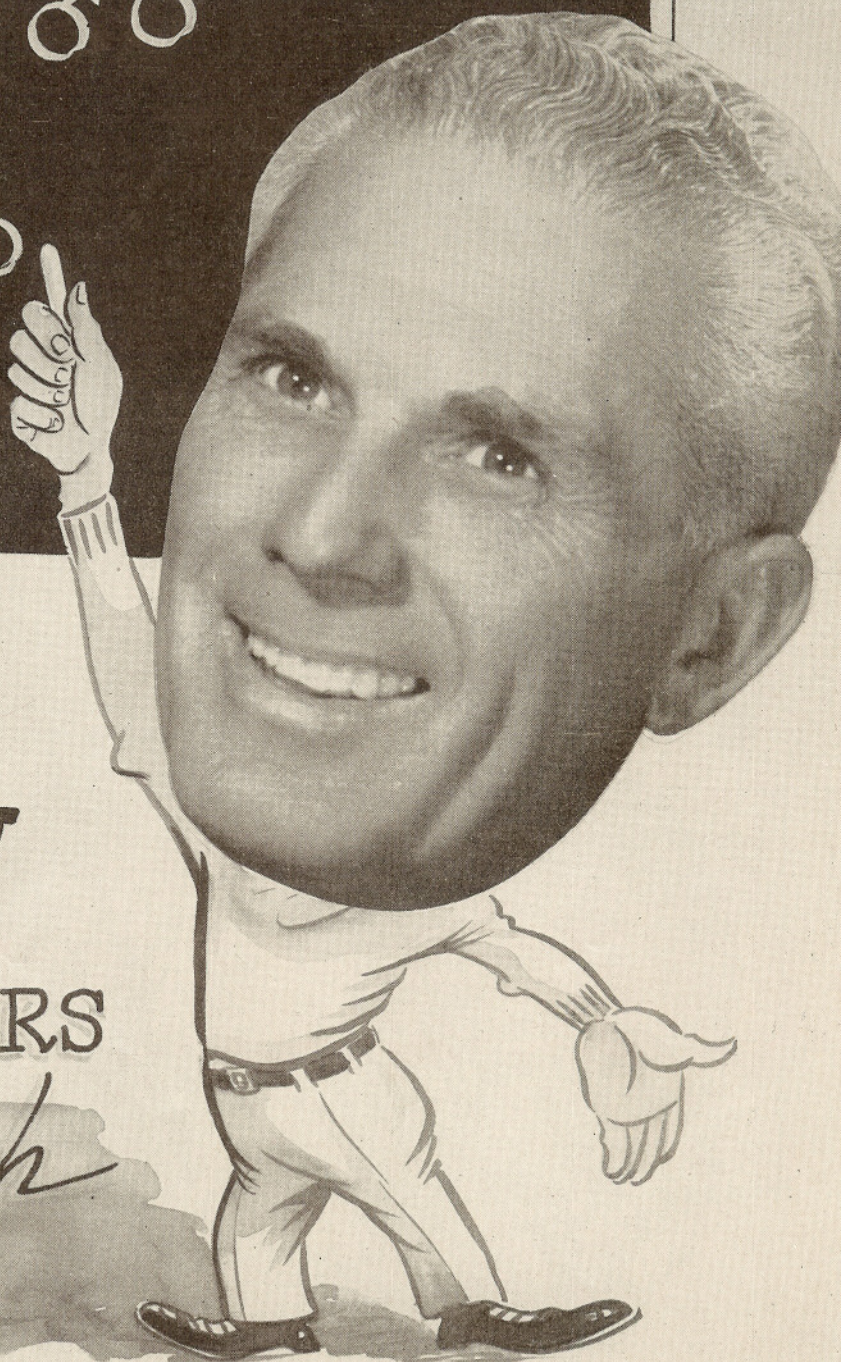

I congratulate the San Francisco owner and staff, the Cleveland owner and staff, and all the A-AFC associates on the gamble they took, on their ability to win it, on the grand new entertainment they've brought to San Francisco.

While They're Away It's Foster On KYA

Following today's game, the 49ers once again hit the skyways. Traveling via TWA Constellation, the 49ers depart next Saturday for Los Angeles, where they meet the Dons in another series of "The Civil War of the West."

Following the Don game, they go East for two more "crucials"—the Yankees at Yankee Stadium on November 9th and a return engagement with the Cleveland Browns at Cleveland on November 16th. Following this game they travel to Chicago and then on to Brooklyn for their game with the Dodgers on Thanksgiving Day.

Traveling with the Forty-Niners to bring you a play-by-play account of each game will be the West's ace sportscaster, Bud Foster.

The Forty-Niners return to Kezar Stadium on December 7th for their struggle with George "The Kid" Ratterman and the Buffalo Bills.

THE TRIP OF A LIFETIME

Financial responsibilities have always prevented you from taking that trip. Personal responsibilities such as the clipping of coupons when due, the depositing of dividend checks, assembling information for tax purposes, collection of rents, all require constant vigilance.

It is not necessary, however, for you to give your time and attention to these details. An Agency account with The San Francisco Bank would make this trip possible because it would relieve you of personal financial worries.
