REEL OFF

We're sorta proud of this month's issue of WTFW. We have reported on 107 cross country races - certainly more than any other track publication. These reports are complete with information about the race, not simply a list of results. And speaking of results, we list at least five places in a dual meet, 10 in a triangular competition and up to 25 or so in the big confrontations.

Several times during the paste up of this issue we wanted to use photos of some of the winners such as Connie Frank, Darla Corp, Mary McNaughton, Jody Eder, Kim Whitaker, Paula Brackelsberg, Jill Rothwell and on and on and on. BUT SID's and coaches have not sent us pix of their athletes. Get us some photos of your athletes to keep on file. We want to use pictures of the lesser known and up-coming runners, but we can't print what we don't have.

With the indoor season coming soon, now is the time to get us pictures in anticipation of some good performances by your athletes.

And we need color shots for the cover. Color slides, vertical shots. We need them.

You'd be surprised how many result sheets come to us without a site or a date or the distance or first names. We manage to figure out quite a few missing points of information, but can't get them all. And still the problem on the east coast about first names. It's getting better, but many still leave the first name off of any result sheet.

Starting with our January 1985 issue, we will be beginning a Classified/Marketplace ad section. If you have anything you wish to publicize to the nation connected with track and field, here is your chance. The cost for this service is amazingly low - only $20 per column inch. We will take ads up to 1/3 page in this section. Advertise your forthcoming meets in our new Classified/Marketplace ad section for a fraction of the cost in other publications. The plus with a WTFW ad is it is GUARANTEED to reach every college, junior college and university women's track team in the country. No other publication can make that claim. And we will be starting our 18th year of publication with the January issue. You've come a long way, baby!

ANOTHER AR FOR FREDERICK

Talence, France, Sept. 15/16: After failing to make the Olympic team due to a no-height in the high jump, Jane Frederick travelled to the climes of Europe and shortly after the Games promptly proceeded to set a new American Record in the heptathlon at 6611 - 91 points better than Jacki Joyner's record.

Now she has done it again adding another 103 points as she won at Talence with 6714, a mark which puts her Number 5 on the All Time World List.

Her marks were nothing short of sensational. Hurdles 13.27, high jump 6'1 1/4, shot put 50'10, long jump 21'1 1/4, javelin throw 169'9 and 2:13.55 for the 800.

Results, 1-Jane Frederick (USA) 6714, 2-Cindy Greiner (USA) 6174 (13.72), 3-Otahalova (Cz) 6100, 4-Patsy Walker (USA) 6100.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Couple of scheduled XC Invitations have been called off this year, among them the Vanderbilt Invitational set for October 13.... Richard Hymans is a well known track and field expert in the world and a writer from Great Britain. Here are some of his comments about the LA Olympics: "The perspective gained in watching an Olympics in a supine position from 6000 miles away from a stadium is different, though not necessarily better than being there.

"The BBC broadcasts hold two distinct advantages over American network coverage. No advertising, and better commentating. Certainly there's a concentration on athletes from one's own country, but it tends not to reach the manic level of Chauvinism that was reported in the world's press of the US networks.

"The events themselves were a mixture of fascinating and banal. While the British commentators generally steered clear of the 'If the Eastern bloc athletes had been here' type of statement, it was glaringly obvious that in every womens event the result would have been different if the boycott had not entered the scene. The sense that every womens' champion could have been some other athlete was only denied by Evelyn Ashford's most eloquent run in Zurich.

"The sheer pleasure of winning seemed to be lacking amongst many of the champions, so in the ranks of the women, the wins by Nawal El Moutawakil and Valerie Brisco were particularly enjoyable to watch".

Sad to report the death of good and old friend Stan Eales. Stan was one of the first statisticians to give equal rights to the female runners. He was announcer for many of the top meets in California - UCLA/Pepsi, Mt. SAC, all the indoor meets. He'll be missed.... Track & Field Writers of America choice for athlete of the month for September was Jane Frederick for her second new AR in the heptathlon.... This has nothing to do with our sport, but it certainly will get your attention. From an article in the Taipei English newspaper comes a warning to drunk drivers. The fine will be $95. BUT, the fine for littering is $375 - that includes spitting, or throwing cigarette butts or chewing gum. You also get a $750 fine for dumping garbage. Safest and cheapest law to break is to drive while under the influence....

New cross country coach at Cal State LA is Larry Greer, coming from Orange Coast College.... Springfield College joins the cast of musical chairs and announces a new women's coach in Jim Pennington who comes from Towson State in Maryland.... Former USC coach Sherry Calvert takes up new duties at Whittier College.... Rose Price is the new coach at North Central.

Really don't understand 'The NCAA News' philosophy. A recent article patted themselves on the back for securing "equal" rights for women reporters in post game situations. That's male discrimination. Things won't be equal until male reporters can troop into female dressing rooms after a contest. THAT'S equal.. Jim Galloway has a new book out, "Galloway's Book On Running". If you're into distances this is a fine bit of reading. $8.95 at Shelter Publications, PO Box 279, Bolinas, Ca 94924...

Recent scrabble at the PA-TAC Skyline 5K Championship. Seems the meet director had only one major prize to give and he, of course, gave it to the men's winner, not Kathy D'Onofrio who won the women's division. Why? "Because we had only one", says the meet director. Unfair! Certainly. Some, if not most, males figure this way. They see absolutely nothing wrong with that decision....

'Names I Like' for November include such as Kathy Wee of St. Olaf, Tepe Rench of Bradley, Buffy Sprick of Missouri, Weezie Benzoni from Indiana U (Pa), Sandy Loop from Redmond HS, Oregon and my daughter's friend Nectar Rose from Lake Arrowhead Elementary School. Watch out for confusing Carey May of BYU and Carrie Mays from UT San Antonio.

KALEIDOSCOPE (Continued)

We're searching for the longest last name and have several at 13 letters such as Cheeseborough, Kannengliesser of Smith College, Yiamouyiannis of Ohio State, Briesemeister from Mankato. So far the winner is Tara Beuthel-spacher with 14 letters from River Falls.

More good stuff from Great Britain comes from the pen of TV Reviewer Simon Barnes. Says Sir Simon, "Now that sport is a television event, female athletes must strain every sinew to be gorgeous. It seems that they must be taken seriously as women before they are allowed to take themselves seriously as athletes.

"There is Mary Decker, who always looks as if she had just run - rather quickly - straight out of an episode of 'Dallas', and Chandra Cheeseborough, a veritable triumph at exotic grooming. For every girl, a little touch of vanity is 'de rigueur': to each sportswoman a pair of little earrings, perhaps a neckchain (though these are now favoured by men), careful touches of perfect make-up, hair elaborately braided and beaded.

"And there was a further women's event that had its baptism in Los Angeles - Synchronized Swimming. The Americans had a word for it: it is TACKY. For this is not a sport that is incidentally glamorous: the sport's sole 'raison d'etre' is glamour. The British girls, with hair set in gelatine and lurid make-up were nothing less than embarrassing. If femininity is a matter of prinking and pouting and making sheep's eyes at all comers, with assinine smiles painted on to each face, then I say bring back Tamara Press! The sport is about as glamorous as a cold haddock with lipstick". My kind of man.

NAWAL EL MOUTAWAKIL - THE MOROCCAN TRAIL BLAZER

By Mel Watman from 'Athletics Weekly'.

The absence of East German, Soviet, Bulgarian and Polish athletes profoundly affected results in the women's events at the Los Angeles Olympics, but one positive repercussion of the boycott was that it provided opportunity for some third world athletes to make their mark on the international stage. For example, Ruth Waithera became Kenya's first female Olympic finalist - an event of considerable significance and hopefully a pointer to the future. But it was the 400m hurdles which produced the greatest sociological breakthrough. An Indian, P.T. Usha, failed by just 1/100th of a second to take a medal as she reduced her Commonwealth record to sparkling 55.42.... and victory, by a considerable margin, went to Morocco's Nawal El Moutawakil.

Nawal, at 5'3 and 108 probably the second smallest ever Olympic athletics champion (after Joan Benoit), made all sorts of history. She became the first Moroccan to win an Olympic athletics title (beating Said Aouita to that distinction by three days) ... the first Arab woman to make an indelible mark on athletics history ... the first African woman, other than three South Africans of European descent, to win an Olympic medal.

This was no hollow victory by the 22-year old Iowa State University student. Hers was a run of true world class as she reduced her personal best from 55.37 to 54.61 in the final, defeating US record holder Judi Brown by some five meters, with European champion Ann-Louis Skoglund back in fifth place. Among non-East Europeans, only Skoglund has ever run faster.

Born in Casablanca on April 15, 1962, Nawal El Moutawakil joined the local athletics club in 1977. Hers was an athletic family: brothers Fouad and Said are hurdlers, sister Wafak a shot putter. Although she began at cross country, Nawal swiftly displayed her class as a sprinter, setting an African Junior 100m record of 11.89 in 1979. She was credited with 11.6 in 1980 and next season, in Rome, she took part in that notable World Cup 100 in which Evelyn Ashford (11.02) and Kathy Cook (UK record of 11.10) defeated Marlies Gohr (11.13). Who could have foretold that the 19-year old representing Africa who placed eighth of nine in 1982 would be crowned an Olympic champion three years later? Her best times in 1981 were 11.86/11.6 for 100, 24.23 for 200,
