

Four Records Fall

Poly Spikers Lead All-City Qualifying

Four lightweight track records were broken and recently reinstated Ray Hearne of Washington got off the best broad jump in the city this year at Kezar yesterday as Poly led eight teams into today's Academic Athletic Association All-City semifinals.

Eddie Moore of Poly ran the 330 in :38.1 and Washington's Ed Shipp sprinted the 150 in :15.5 for 120 exponent division marks, while Jim Tucker of Poly clocked a 3:24.1 1320 and Bob Woods of Washington a :15.1 150 to account for the 130s' records. Bob Stokes of Washington tied the old 130s mark with a :13.9 in the 120 low hurdles.

Hearne, ineligible for most of the season, leaped 22-9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> to upset Jesse Sirles of Poly, who did a 22-4<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>. Lincoln's Don Briemle topped his own city best in the discus with a 139-9.

The Parrots led by qualifying 14 men into today's semifinals and 12 more into Saturday's All-City. Washington was second with 13 in the semis and nine in the finals, while others were Lincoln, nine and eight; Balboa, 12 and eight; Lowell and Mission, each five and five; Galileo, two and one; and S. I., zero and three.

Only two coaches won't predict the Parrot win, and one of them, Poly's Steve Ebert, is obviously struggling to cover his glee when he says: "I'm not predicting anything. All I'll say is that I'm proud of the way my boys have come through."

The other dissenter is Jim Wyatt, whose Lincoln Mustangs stand the best chance of dethroning the defending champs. Wyatt, who lived and died with every qualifying race, isn't giving away anything, and with a small but tough crew led by sprinter Ed Tank (:09.8 and :21.9) the Links just could take away everything.

But on paper, it's Poly all the way. Ebert takes 22 qualifiers into the finals, nine more than runners-up Lincoln and Washington, and his power in the sprints and hurdles is frightening. Three of the six finalists in the 100, 220 and 180 low hurdles are from Poly.

Nor is depth the only advantage. Competitors like Alex and Ellis Jenkins in the sprints, Andy Loobey and Bob Kane in the mile, that whole flock of hurdlers, and Jesse Sirles in the pole vault and broad jump aren't in there just for place points.

Sirles will be in tough all the way. He already trails in the broad jump, where Washington's Ray Hearne leaped 22-9<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> in the trials, a mark that carried over into the finals. Sirles is now in second with 22-4<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>.

In the pole vault, Jess who splintered a brand new fibre-glass pole in the trials and has noly slight hopes of replacing it for today's meet, is up against Tom Colton, with a best of 13-3<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>.

Colton's mark, incidentally, is only one-fourth of an inch under the city record, a mark that has stood since 1933 and is, with the 100 yard dash standard of :09.7, the oldest in the book. Both could go today, with Colton threatening the former and Tank, the windmill-like speedster who flies down the track with arms waving, mighty close to the latter.

Our pick? Who else but Poly, by 10 points over challenger Lincoln.

Running like a machine in the hot sun, Lowell's Curtis raced to a :49.2 440, and then, disappointed at his failure to lower his own city record of :49.1, came back to win a tough 220 heat in :21.7. In capturing the 220, the slender Curtis was moving away from Tank at the finish, with Ellis Jenkins of Poly third. Cal Murry, with a season best of :21.8, was eliminated in the fast field.

Tank's :09.9 in the century was the fastest run in All-City trials or finals in several years, but did not approach the city mark, standing since 1933, of :09.7. Ed has turned in two :09.8's this year.

Lightweight records broken or tied were: a :09.5 by Bob Law of Washington in the 130s' 70-yard high hurdles, a :07.9 75 yard dash by Mission 130-pounder Herb Williams, also tying the AAA record; a :14.9 150-yard dash by Washington's Ike Woods, his second new mark in the event in two tries; a new standard at :08 flat in the 120s 75-yard dash by Stan Rubin of Lowell, who just finished with baseball as a slick second baseman; a :15.5 in the 120s' 150 by Hiroshi Nakai of Lowell, tying the mark set by Washington's Claude Shipp in the quarter-finals.

Lincoln's Don Briemle provided a varsity note when he took third in Curtis' 440 heat, the fourth event he has qualified for. He currently stands first in the discus and second in the shot, and is a member of the Mustang relay team.

The finals of the All-City will be held tomorrow at Kezar, with the high jump starting at noon, other field events at 1:30, track at 2 p. m.

Poly Relay Four, Curtis Star

Poly's 880-yard relay team, as good as its word, cracked a year-old city record and Tim Curtis turned in the fastest 220-440 double ever run in trials or finals to highlight the Academic Athletic Association All-City track trials at Kezar yesterday.

The Parrot quartet of Harold Franklin, Gary Lewis and Ellis and Alex Jenkins raced to a 1:29.6 clocking, well under the 1:31.2 run by Washington last year, after promising Coach Steve Ebert before the race that they would "get him a record" in the event.

The Parrots, who have run under the city record several times this year, went out and got it. Any AAA record, to be official, must be made in the All-City trials or finals.

Curtis, the Lowell flash who already holds the city mark in the 440 (:49.1 last year) eased to a :49.7 quarter and came back with :21.5 in the 220, only one-tenth of a second off Ollie Matson's AAA standard.

Other outstanding marks in the varsity track runoffs were a 2:00.7 880 by Mission's Roosevelt Williams, stepping up from the 440 for the first time in a surprise move; a 2:01.8 half mile by Poly's Bob Dennis in another heat; a :10.0 100 and :21.9 220 by Lincoln's Ed Tank; and a :21.8 furlong by Cal Murry of Washington.
