

CADET ATHLETICS

Not all athletes become Air Force Academy cadets, but all Air Force Academy cadets become athletes. Few schools in the country have as broad or as extensive an athletic program as the Air Force Academy.

The goal of the athletic program is to develop such traits as persistence, will to win, aggressiveness and courage - all characteristics of a good leader. The Academy curriculum is divided into three main areas - academics, military training and athletics. A cadet must excel in all three areas to earn his or her second lieutenant commission and bachelor of science degree.

Under the guidance of Athletic Director Col. John Clune, the athletic program is broken down into three subdivisions: intercollegiate, intramural and physical education.

Eighteen intercollegiate men's and ten women's sports compete at the Air Force Academy. Varsity men's teams face some of the top teams in the nation in football, cross country, soccer, water polo, basketball, fencing, rifle, pistol, ice hockey, gymnastics, indoor track, wrestling, swimming, baseball, outdoor track, lacrosse, golf and tennis. Currently, women's teams are fielded in cross country, volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, fencing, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, golf and tennis. Women also compete in pistol and rifle.

The intramural program is conducted by cadets under the supervision of the physical education department. Each cadet squadron fields a team in each of 17 sports - tackle football, soccer, tennis, flickerball, boxing, wrestling, water polo, handball, squash, rugby, basketball, swimming, cross country, team handball, volleyball, flag football, and racquetball.

Air Force will enter Western Athletic Conference competition effective July 1, 1980, with competition in 10 sports: baseball, basketball, cross country, football, golf, swimming, tennis, indoor track, outdoor track and wrestling. Other sports such as soccer, lacrosse, women's volleyball and women's basketball also compete in leagues.

Cadet athletes enjoy the best facilities available anywhere. The Cadet Gymnasium contains 24 squashball courts; 19 handball courts; six basketball courts which have cross court floors; two swimming pool areas; an indoor rifle and pistol range; gymnastics, wrestling, fencing and boxing rooms; a supply area; several training rooms and lockers for all cadets and coaches offices.

The $5.6 million field house contains a one-sixth mile indoor track with an Astro-Turf infield, a basketball court with Tartan floor for varsity competition, a regulation ice hockey rink, training rooms, lockers for cadets and the officers of the athletic department, and administrative offices of the athletic department.

Able to accommodate over 46,000 spectators, Falcon Stadium is the site of varsity football contests with such nationally ranked foes as Notre Dame, Army and Navy. Other outdoor facilities include 45 athletic fields covering 143 acres for intercollegiate and intramural sports, two baseball diamonds and a 400-meter all-weather track. Also Eisenhower Golf Course, located on the Academy, offers two 18-hole courses for varsity golf and cross country competition.

Two of the fastest tracks in the nation are located at the Air Force Academy.

The indoor track in the Cadet Field House is a 293-yard, six-laps-to-the-mile Tartan surface that surrounds an Astroturf infield. The outdoor track is a 400-meter all-weather surface installed in 1978 by Advanced Coatings Inc. of Buena Park, Calif.

Both tracks have produced some of the top marks in the world in recent years. The indoor track was first used during the 1969 indoor season while the outdoor track produced outstanding performances during the first two National Sports Festivals held at the Academy in 1978 and 1979.

The indoor track is located inside one of the most impressive sports buildings in the nation -- the Cadet Field House.

A modern versatile structure with seemingly endless uses, the field house was built at a cost of $5.6 million, is five stories high and measures 396 feet by 425 feet, the size of three football fields laid side by side.

The structure is actually three buildings in one -- a basketball arena, an ice hockey arena and a massive multipurpose area that includes a netted area 119 feet by 125 feet for use by baseball for batting and infield practice.

The multipurpose area also contains a long jump and triple jump pit, a high jump pit, a pole vault pit and a shot put area for indoor meets.

The indoor track area can seat up to 1,000 people while the outdoor track can accommodate up to 15,000 by using the grassy banks on the west side of the track. In 1971, a crowd of 14,000 was at the outdoor track to watch the final day of the National AAU Junior Olympics competition.
