

Scots favored in x-country meet

SAN JOSE — There will be some good teams and some average teams Friday afternoon at Coyote Park in the Central Coast Section Region II Cross Country Championships.

The meet, which starts at 3 o'clock, brings together the top six teams from both the South Peninsula Athletic League and the Santa Clara Valley Athletic League.

When the running is over, only five teams will survive to advance to the Central Coast Section Finals next Wednesday. The CCS Finals is the end of the line for local prep harriers.

Topping the list are two exceptional teams, Carlmont of the SPAL and Awalt of SCVAL. Carlmont is the favorite of the two, with San Carlos, Los Altos and Homestead expected to battle for the final three qualifying places.

Hans Templeman of Carlmont is the logical favorite to win the individual title but will draw competition from teammate Steve Miller and three Awalt runners, Rick Hart and twin brothers Dave and Larry Chamness. Templeman has already beaten each of these runners at least once this year.

The race will be run over a 2.65-mile flat course that consists of both grass and dirt paths.

Other SPAL teams competing in the race include Menlo-Ather-ton, paced by John Barbour; Woodside, led by Pete Marks; Sequoia, with Mark Daniel its most consistent performer; and Cubberley.

Besides a large school varsity race, there will also be a small school varsity race, a large school sophomore race, a small school sophomore race, a junior varsity race and a freshman race.

Carlmont is almost a sure bet to take the junior varsity race and could also take the sophomore large school race and the freshman race with a strong effort. If Sequoia expects to get in the finals, it will probably have to be with its junior varsity team. Gunn's sophomore team, led by Gordon Mac-Mitchell, has a chance to win its division.

Scots Pick

In CCS

Region Run

SAN JOSE — There will be some real good teams, and there will be some average teams Friday afternoon at Coyote Park here in the Central Coast Section Region II Cross Country Championships.

The meet, which starts at 3 o'clock, brings together the top six teams from both the South Peninsula Athletic League and the Santa Clara Valley Athletic League.

When the running is over, only five teams will survive to advance to the Central Coast Section Finals next Wednesday. The CCS Finals is the end of the line for local prep harriers.

Topping the list are two really fine teams, Carlmont of the SPAL and Awalt of SCVAL. Carlmont is the favorite of the two, with San Carlos, Los Altos and Homestead expected to battle for the final three qualifying places.

Hans Templeman of Carlmont is the logical favorite to win the individual title — which he did last year — but will draw competition from teammate Steve Miller and three Awalt runners, Rick Hart and twin brothers Dave and Larry Chamness. Templeman has already beaten each of these runners at least once this year.

The race will be run over a 2.65-mile flat course that consists of both grass and dirt paths.

Other SPAL teams competing in the race include Menlo-Atherton, paced by John Barbour; Woodside, led by Pete Marks; Sequoia, with Mark Daniel its most consistent performer; and Cubberley.

Besides a large school varsity race, there will also be a small school varsity race, a large school sophomore race, a small school sophomore race, a junior varsity race and a freshman race.

Carlmont is almost a sure bet to take the junior varsity race and could also take the sophomore large school race and the freshman race with a strong effort.