the weather was ideal. The attendance numbered 14,600, and was the largest in the history of the association.

It was noteworthy that in spite of the intense competition of fifty years, four records were broken and allowed and three other records were broken but disallowed because of an assisting wind. In the eleven events the performances were better than the preceding year, which in turn had provided a remarkable series of competitions.

The Championship was won by Southern California for the second year in succession with 35½ points, including four first places. Stanford was second with 25½ points, including two first places. Yale was third with 25 1-3 points or 1-6 of a point behind second.

The following members of the Association were represented, with the number of entries, athletes starting and events competed in indicated:
