'Pre' easy winner in Indoor 2-mile

By LEO DAVIS

of The Oregonian staff

Even the most rabid Steve Prefontaine fan found seeing hard to believe Saturday night as the tireless University of Oregon junior won his third straight Oregon Indoor Invitational two-mile title at the Memorial Coliseum.

It wasn't so much the what as the how, though.

Encouraged by a standing-room-only crowd of 10,062, Prefontaine ran 8:26.6 to erase the record he set here last year and with it the finest two-mile field in the 12-year history of this meet.

But he wasn't perfect. "I had three goals," Steve said. "Win, run under 8:30 and, three, to run 8:20. So I only made two of the three."

Enroute, he made a field that included Jim Ryun, Rex Maddaford, Terry Harrison and Jerry Lindgren look like a bunch of amateurs.

His record, four-tenths of a second off the American indoor best held by Frank Shorter, a no-show Saturday night, was one of a handful set at the Coliseum.

Al Feuerbach, who holds the world indoor mark, flirted with his lifetime best of 68-11 but settled for an indoor record of 68-6 $\frac{1}{4}$ , and Kjell Isaksson cleared 17-3 in the vault, a half-foot under his indoor standard but two inches better than anything previous here.

Prefontaine led wire-to-wire in his two-mile victory, which wasn't according to plan. Everything else he did was.

Oregon Assistant Coach Bill Dellinger had spelled out the race strategy. "We planned against the opposition — we wanted a quick pace with milers in the field. We wanted a 4:15 first mile."

Pre turned in a 4:16, ran the second in 4:10.6.

But the Duck had to set his pace. "I knew after the first lap nobody else would, they were hanging back, playing the odds and hoping I'd burn out."

Burn out he didn't, just burn. At the mile Prefontaine had maybe 12 yards on runnerup Lindgren and he maintained that spread until the gun lap. Then he accelerated.

Ryun finished a distant fourth, lapped by the winner on the final straight. However, the Kansas flyer wasn't unhappy with his performance and he was generous with his praise for Steve.

"I just wanted to find out where I was (in his training program). I thought I had a chance or I wouldn't have entered the meet, but I'm not displeased with what I accomplished. Pre ran a brilliant race — and I have six months left before the trials."

Feuerbach was obviously the class of the shot field at the first put. The chesty champion had three throws better than 68 feet and his winner was almost five feet better than second place Doug Lane of USC.

In a pre-meet bull session Isaksson pointed out the vault box was an inch low and explained in detail the handicaps it entailed.

There was nothing shallow about the Swede's performance, however. The vault turned into a battle between Isaksson and his countryman, Hans Lagerquist, with Kjell winning at 17-3. The old mark, 17-1½, was held by a Greek, Chris Papanicolaou.

Mark Winzenried, who won the 1,000-yard run at the Melrose Games in New York Friday night, repeated at the coliseum in a bristling battle with Oregon's Wes Smylie. The veteran ran smart, ran hard and had too much left on the gun lap when Smylie challenged.

Two-time NAIA champion Bob Maplestone of Eastern Washington caught Jim Johnson just short of the wire to win the open mile in 4:05.13.

And that afforded one of the evening's rare surprises. Pre-meet favorite John Mason, a sub-four talent, finished fourth and showed the effects of a long plane ride west. Mason, 24-hours earlier, had won the Wannamaker Mile in New York.

The long-jump that had shaped up as a three-way duel among Bouncy Moore, Arnie Robinson and Henry Hines, failed to develop along those lines.

Moore was the early leader but Sam Whiteley came out of the pack in the final jumps to take the win with a 25-5½ effort.

Late scratches took Shorter, Lee Evans, Don Quarrie and Doris Brown out of the lists. They were missed, but only briefly.

UCLA's Warren Edmonson won the 60-yard dash, where Quarrie had figured; Wes Williams took the 500, Evans specialty; Debbie Heald prevailed in the women's mile in Miss Brown's absence.

But the crowd hardly noticed the absentees as it watched the field go through its paces and cranked up for the two-mile.

That was the main event and Prefontaine gave them their money back.

If Steve missed shorter he didn't say so. But then it's hard to tell who's running behind you.

There may have been a question in 10,062 minds when they lined up for the two-mile. But there was no doubt about the meet's "most valuable athlete" when it was over.
