Brown improves her ticket with record high jump

By Fran Errota
Staff Writer

Wendy Brown prefers the long jump but is smart enough to know the high jump is her ticket to the Olympics.

The talented Woodside High School senior was the dominant figure in the high school portion of the Bruce Jenner Classic on Saturday before an estimated crowd of 4,000 at San Jose City College.

Brown high-jumped 6-2 $\frac{1}{4}$, setting a state record and equaling the second-best mark in national high school history. Lisa Bernhagen, a senior at Wood River High School in Hailey, Ida., set the outdoor record of 6-2 $\frac{3}{4}$ last spring.

Brown's mark also surpassed the Olympic qualifying standard of 6-1 $\frac{1}{4}$.

"I still like the long jump," Brown said, "but it seems I'm getting better in the high jump.

"I like the facilities — that's why I do well here. I think I have a chance to do 6-4 this season."

It was more than the facilities. Brown has done well everywhere she has competed the last three seasons. And her talents weren't confined to the high jump Saturday.

She also stunned the crowd with a wind-aided 43-2 $\frac{1}{2}$ effort in the triple jump, easily the best ever by a high school girl. Without the wind, her best was 42-3 $\frac{1}{4}$, well ahead of the listed national record of 41- $\frac{1}{2}$. Yvette Bates of Berkeley, who has done 41-9 $\frac{3}{4}$, was runner-up with a 39-10 $\frac{1}{4}$ jump.

Brown also won her favorite event, the long jump, with a 19-1 $\frac{1}{4}$ mark and lost the 100-meter hurdles when Leslie Maxie of Mills, another Olympic possibility, won with a lean at the tape.

Maxie won with a 13.87 clocking; Brown's 13.88 was a lifetime best. They were the second- and third-fastest marks in the country this season.

After Brown cleared 6-1 in the high jump a month ago, she could not think of a reason for her sudden improvement from her previous best of 5-9. She thinks she knows why now.

"I played volleyball and basketball before coming out for track this year," Brown said. "I think that has helped make me a better high jumper."

A two-time state triple-jump champion, Brown had one regret about the competition in that event Saturday.

"I'm happy I won," Brown said, "but Yvette (Bates) hurt herself last week and wasn't in her best shape today.

"I know she'll be ready next time. If she's healthy, I know it will be good competition."

Other outstanding efforts included Maxie's easy triumph in 61.87 in the 400-meter low hurdles. Latonia Floyd of Oak Grove had a personal best of 45-8 in the shot put, Mina Hutchins of Independence won the 100 in 12.22, Kristen Dowell of Santa Teresa had a CCS season best of 2:10.73 in the 800 and Nanette Garcia of Silver Creek won the 1,500 in 4:38.85.

In the boys' competition, Mark Coulter of Gunderson went 15-6 in the pole vault.

Junior Jeff Rogers of Overfelt had one good try at 7 feet after clearing 6-11 for a second straight week. But he had to give way to sophomore George Smith of Clovis West, who cleared the same height to win the high jump on fewer misses.

And it seems as if Brown has barely scratched the surface of her track potential.

Brown high-jumped 6-2¼, the best ever prep jump outdoors and the second best in high school history. The mark qualifies Brown for the 1984 Olympic Trials.

"Last year, I felt like not doing the high jump at all," Brown said. "I just didn't do well. Then my first meet this year I cleared six feet. I think I can clear 6-3 this year."

After Brown's 6-2¼ Saturday, the public address announcer reported it as a national prep record. Later, however, it was discovered the record is 6-3 by Lisa Bernhagen of Wood River High in Hailey, Idaho. Brown then tried 6-3 and failed three times.

Brown recorded a wind-aided 43-2½ in the triple jump, 1½ inches off the women's unofficial world record and American mark. The American standard is only one recognized because no other country competes in the event. The triple jump is not an Olympic event for women.

Brown's accomplishments are more amazing considering she trains very little for track and field.

Brown only competes and practices during the track season, doesn't compete or train with a club during the summer, and plays volleyball and basketball during the school year.

Now she has a chance at the Olympics, albeit a slim one. Three American women already have jumped 6-4 this season and one collegiate jumper is approaching that height.

While most athletes make the Olympics a long-range goal, the chance more-or-less just "happened" for Brown.

"I thought I might have a chance at the Olympics when I jumped 6-1 if she did a weight-training program year-around, who knows what she could do," Woodside coach Jim Luttrell said. "Right now, it's all natural ability, but whatever she's doing seems to be good for her right now."

"I've thought about what a national best means," Brown said with a smile. "It's hard to imagine beating everyone in the country."

Brown's performance Saturday had Jenner competitors both frustrated and impressed.

One reporter was interviewing a pole vaulter, who had just cleared a personal-best 15-6, when Brown walked by.

"I bet if you gave her a pole, she'd clear 16-6, easy, on her first try," the vaulter said.

Clovis' Latrise Johnson, who finished second in the high jump with a respectable 5-8, was asked by a teammate if she had won.

"No," an obviously disgruntled Johnson said. "That girl is winning everything."

And it seems, California preps better get used to it.

Brown was the only Peninsula athlete to win more than two events. Mills' Maxie won the the 400-meter low hurdles in 1:01.87, beating the second-place finisher by almost four seconds. Maxie came from behind to beat Brown in the 100-meter hurdles while recording a Central Coast Section-best 13.87.

Gunn's Danette Vercher finished second in the discus (133-0) and fourth in the shot put (39-3½). Woodside sophomore LaShun Peters finished second in the 100 and fourth in the 200.

In the boys' division, St. Francis' Michael Davidson came back from an early deficit to win the 400-meter dash in 48.19, a CCS best. Gunn's Dave Campbell finished fifth in 49.55.

Brown steals the show

Woodside girl wins three at Bruce Jenner meet

By Tim Goode
Special to the Times Tribune

SAN JOSE — It would be hard to imagine Wendy Brown being surprised at anything she does on an athletic field.

Her past accomplishments are well-documented. The Woodside High School junior won the triple jump in the state track meet the past two years, shattered the national high school record in that event this year, and is unbeaten in field events this season.

Saturday at the Bruce Jenner Classic II at San Jose City College, Brown added to her laurels by winning the long, triple and high jumps, and finishing second by .001 to Mills' Leslie Maxie in the 100-meter hurdles.

Brown competed in four events in less than three hours, but the hectic pace had little effect on her.

"All those events might tire other people," Brown said, "but it's not very tiring to me. I had some goals for this meet. They were about what I got, except for the long jump. I could have done better in that, but I'm still happy."

And it seems as if Brown has barely scratched the surface of her track potential.
